A Theory of Flies.

Scientific persons are always inventing new theories to account for all sorts of things. For example, there is a Professor Smith's theory of cats, according to which a cat's fondness for the back fence is due to the fact that nature designed the animal to sit on the ridge-poles of houses, and that in other cities, where the roofs are nearly all flat, the back fence offers the best attainable substitute for the ridge pole. There is also Prof. Brown's theory that mosquitoes do not exist, and that it is a disease of the nerves which makes us imagine that we see and feel something which we call mosquitoes. The latest and most interesting of scientific theories is Prof. Simmons's theory of flies. This eminent Chicago scientific person believes that flies exist at all times of the year in vast quantities in the atmosphere at a distance of a mile and seven-eighths from the surface of the earth, and that they are driven to the earth by any concussion of the air, such as is produced by a thunder-storm or by the discharge of artillery.

In support of this theory Professor Simmons brings forward several plausible illustrations. He reminds us that we have had hardly any thunder-storms in the Northern States until since the beginning of July, and that until that time there were scarcely a fly visible. During the entire months of May and June, when, according to precedent, our homes should have swarmed with flies, we enjoyed a marked and universal exemption from them. Even in houses where the most alluring fly-paper was displayed, not a fly was caught, and both the wonderful harmony which prevailed among politicians, and the unexampled decrease of business in our divorce courts, were, in Prof. Simmons's opinion, due to the death of flies.

The Professor calls attention to the fact that the flies suddenly arrived in innumerable quantities the day after the bombardment of Alexandria. As is well known, the heaviest guns of the British navy were fired for several consecutive hours during this bombardment, and were answered by the less heavy but still enormous guns of the Egyptian forts. The din was tremendous, and had a heavy shower fallen immediately after the bombardment ceased, those persons who believe that a heavy artillery fire always produces rain would have exclaimed that their theory was justified. Professor Simmons seems to have an equal right to cite the bombardment as an illustration of his own particular theory. Flies certainly did appear for the first time this summer the day after the bombardment, and the Professor is perfectly certain that they were brought down from the upper regions of the atmosphere by concussion.

So long as this theory remains nothing but a theory it can do no harm, but its learned inventor ought to be made to understand that there are some things which an intelligent public will not tolerate. He is now engaged in an effort to induce Congress to lend him a battery of heavy guns, and to make an appropriation to defray the expense of bombarding the heavens, in order to produce a shower of flies. No man, however learned he may be, and however estimable may be his general character, can engage in the work of producing flies and live. We have all the flies that are needed—all in fact that we can possibly endure—and the man who attempts to add to their number by firing cannon will be justly blown from the mouth of one of his own guns by an infuriated and alarmed people.

Without venturing to pronounce upon the truth or falsity of Prof. Simmons's theory of flies, it may be suggested that the existence of bald-headed men may account for flies in a perfectly satisfactory way. Look for a moment at the fact. A bald-headed man is exposed for one hour in a room with five persons possessing a decent amount of hair, and in a region where flies abound, more flies will cluster on his head than on the entire surfaces of the five other persons. Furthermore, if a bald-headed man be placed in a room where no flies are known to exist, an average number of eleven thousand flies per hour will enter that room and light on his head. These experiments and others of the same nature have been repeatedly made by Prof. Jones, of St. Louis, and always with substantially the same result.

Moreover, it is a well-ascertained fact that in countries where baldness is unknown, flies do not exist. In the Arctic Circle, where such an object as a bald-headed Esquimaux has never once been met, flies are absolutely unknown, while in boarding-houses in the temperate zone, frequented by bald-headed boarders from the city, flies are so numerous as to defy computation. Upon these facts we may base the theory that flies are the result of baldness, and the theory will be at least as plausible and well sustained by facts as is the theory of Prof. Simmons.—Harper's Bazar.

The Barber's Book-Keeping.

"No, sir," said a Comstock (Nev.) barber to a suspicious-looking transient customer, who affably remarked, as the latter was being laid on, that he supposed there were a good many men who 'a'led to pay their shaving scores. "No, sir. I used to give credit, but I never do now—in fact, nobody ever asks for tick any more."

"How's that?" "Well, you see," said the barber, trying the edge of his razor on his thumb-nail, "I had a set of stuffs who used to ask me to chalk it down. I got tired of keeping books, and I adopted a new system. Whenever I shaved one of these old stand-bys I put a little nick in his nose with my razor, and kept tally in that way. They got so they didn't want to rub bills."

There was a tremor in the customer's voice, as he asked from beneath the latter: "Do you object to being paid in advance?"—Virginia Chronicle.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVENING, NOV. 6, 1882.

TERMS:—The EVENING BULLETIN is published daily, and served free of postage at 6 cents per week; 25 cents per month; 75 cents per three months; $1.50 per six months, and $3 per year, payable in advance.

THE EVENING BULLETIN HAS A LARGER CIRCULATION IN THIS CITY, CHESTER AND ABERDEEN, OHIO, THAN ANY OTHER PAPER PUBLISHED IN MAYSVILLE.

The Penny Post, a sprightly little Lexington paper appeared last Friday.

Let every county committeeman see that the full Democratic vote is polled in his precinct.

Every Democratic vote will be needed to-morrow. Let nothing keep you from the polls. Vote early.

HENRY WARD BEECHER will vote for Cleveland for Governor of New York, and advises every other Republican in the state to do likewise.

The Post-office Department discourages the proposition for the reduction of postage, likely to result from the surplus revenues and estimated surplus of next year.

A. C. SOTELDO, the Washington journalist accused of killing his brother while trying to shoot Barton, the manager of the Washington Republican, has been acquitted.

It is announced that there is a sudden demand in Pennsylvania for workingmen and the demand is explained by the fact that the election takes place there to-morrow.

DEMOCRATS should make it a point to go the polls early to-morrow morning, so that by noon an encouraging report may be sent to our friends in other parts of the district.

The New York Republican state committee have closed their canvass. Secretary Folger's defeat is predicted by from 50,000 to 75,000. The Democrats are also confident of carrying the assembly.

Gov. BLACKBURN says he wishes it distinctly understood he never used the expression imputed to him, that he would defend the prisoners if he had to kill every man, woman and child in Boyd county. He says the author of that expression, whoever he may be, knew at the time he made it that it was an infamous falsehood, so absurd on its face that he did not for a moment believe any sane man would give credence to it, much less a journal pretending to truth and respectability.

JUDGE BROWN, through fear of his life, has left Ashland and is now at Frankfort. The Governor will probably appoint a special judge to preside during the remaining days of the Boyd circuit court. Judge Brown says Neal and Craft have exhausted the indulgence of the law and must stand their trials in Carter county whether they desire to do so or not. He does not believe there will be any disturbance in Carter county, but thinks the troops should be ordered there as a precautionary measure.

The Kansas City "Live Stock Indicator" publishes reports from 125 counties in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa in regard to the yield of corn as compared with last year, of which number 92 report a larger yield and the remainder about the same as last year. "Of hogs to be marketed during November and December, 30 counties only report that the number will exceed last year's. In regard to young hogs coming on, as compared with last year, 42 counties report the supply larger. There are but 7 counties which report any disease among hogs."

The Election.

Our readers should remember that the election for congressman in this district takes place to-morrow. The vote will be by ballot, which should bear the name of J. S. Hurt and no other distinguishing mark. When deposited in the ballot box it should be so folded as to conceal the name.

All this is required by law and every voter should be careful to see that all the terms of the law are complied with.

It is the duty of every Democrat to give Col. Hurt his vote. It is a poor compliment to a candidate for his party to neglect to give him its cordial and full support and beside every Democratic vote will be needed at this election. Col. Hurt deserves well of the democracy and they should testify their respect for him by going to the polls and casting their full vote for him.

NEWS BREVITIES.

Fine sugar has been made of sorghum by a new process at Champaign, Ill.

Heavy white frosts and thick ice in Northern New York Friday morning.

Oscar Buckner, a Baltimore drummer, killed himself at Griffin, Georgia, Friday.

The American Express Company's office at Winnipeg, Manitoba, was robbed of $10,000.

The personal estate of the late Frank Queen, proprietor of the New York Clipper, is $50,000.

A yacht foundered off Calais, in the English channel. All on board, six persons, were drowned.

A slight improvement is reported in representative Updegraff's condition, although he is by no means out of danger.

Michael Hershner, near Mt. Gilead, O., and John Bickle, near Wabash, Ind., both farmers dropped dead yesterday.

Counterfeit ten-dollar treasury notes, of the letter C series, 1875, have been discovered in large quantities in New York City.

The Goodyear India Rubber Glove Company's building at Nantucket, Conn., used for curing rubber, burned Friday. Loss not serious; no insurance.

A young man named Emery committed suicide at his brother's residence near Bloomfield, Guernsey County, by taking a dose of poison. He was staying over night with his brother and no cause is assigned.

It is now said that Mrs. Seguin, who, in a fit of mental aberration, killed her children and herself, had been made insane from constant brooding on her husband's spiritual condition, and that she probably believed that the only way to save her children risking their salvation was to kill them in their youth.

Concerning Women.

Vermont has two women acting as mail carriers.

The deaconess of Trinity church, Naponset, Mass., is Mrs. Sarah Stone, past three score and ten.

In order to pursue her studies in medicine and surgery, the wife of President Gonzales, of Mexico, has gone to Chicago.

Rosa Bonheur lives the year round at By, an old hunting lodge of Marie de Medicis, near Fontainebleau, and drives herself out daily in her pony carriage.

It is said of Mrs. Langtry that she is beautiful when her face is in repose, eyes, hair, nose and skin being all that is to be wished, but the coarse mouth being out of harmony with the rest.

A young working girl in a factory has contributed a series of humorous and pathetic sketches, dealing with the lives of working children, to Harper's Magazine, to be published during the coming year.

Princess Christian is making a translation of Prof. Esmarch's work, "First Help in Sudden Accidents."

Miss Louisa Harris, of Oakland, Dedham, Mass., has sailed for Europe to fill an appointment as teacher in the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the blind in London.

CIRCULATE the DAILY BULLETIN.

THANKSGIVING turkeys are preparing to be offered up.

KEEP your temper while talking politics or about the Ashland affair.

SEVERAL scouts from the Boyd county mob are reported to have been at Lexington.

A POLAR wave is said to be rolling this way. Cold weather may be expected very soon.

THE report that a child was killed in its mother's arms during the fight at Ashland, is untrue.

A YOUNG man named Wm. Wright had his foot crushed at Lexington, Friday, by being caught under an engine on the Kentucky Central.

THE alarm of fire on Sunday morning about one o'clock, was occasioned by the burning of an outhouse at Mrs. Frank Duke's in East Maysville. The loss was slight.

MR. CHARLES COOPER has rented the building on Second street lately occupied by Jos. Varian and is receiving a large and well selected stock of dry goods. Go and see him.

MR. THOMAS CONNELL has opened a boarding and eating house on Third street, in the Poyntz block, and is prepared to entertain the public in good style. Call and see him.

Sergeant John M. Hierley, who was accidentally wounded at Catlettsburg, and sergeant Fitzgerald and private Kehoe, who remained to take care of him, are expected home to-day.

Masquerade Ball.

A number of the young gentlemen of East Maysville have arranged to give a masquerade ball at Amazon Hall, on the 17th inst. The music will be furnished by Ray's orchestra and everything possible will be done to make it a pleasant occasion.

For Rent.

My residence on the Mt. Carmel road, one mile from this city. The house contains eleven rooms; there is a good barn on the place; with fourteen acres of land particularly adapted to gardening purposes. Would rent house and portion of the ground. (nov11t) H. H. Cox.

THE answer to the question propounded by the DAILY BULLETIN in the issue Saturday has been correctly furnished by Mr. John Shea, and he is according to the terms of the offer entitled to a year's subscription to the DAILY. The solution is this: Each base ball club must play nine games with eleven other clubs, or a total of ninety-nine games. As only six clubs can play, six times ninety-nine, or five hundred and ninety-four, represents the number of games played. Other answers to the question were furnished but Mr. Shea's was the only correct one.

THE Commercial takes a somewhat different view of the Ashland affair from what it did several days ago. It now says: "Perhaps the first question to be decided, with respect to the Ashland tragedy is that as to the duty of the officers of the law to protect criminals. Have the representatives of law any rights that a mob should be taught to respect?"

Mobs are sometimes rather too dictatorial. It has become almost a matter of course, that if the people are excited, and propose to take out an alleged criminal and murder him, the officers are overpowered, and the persons in custody killed without trial.

In the Ashland case the threats of mob violence were notorious. A steamboat bearing a couple of desperadoes believed to be murder, in charge of officers and protected by a guard, was pursued and assailed.

The boat was fired upon from the shore repeatedly, with the evident purpose of mischief. A ferryboat crowded by an armed mob attempted to intercept the steamer. Men who were bearing arms for the defense of the prisoners were wounded. Now, what was the duty of the officers? Was it to surrender to the mob? It should be fully understood that American volunteers are not, as a rule, so highly disciplined as to stand fire without returning it. The soldier boys, if shot at, will shoot back. That should not be forgotten.

It happened in the case we are considering, as always, that innocent people suffered. That is to be deeply regretted. The attack upon the boat was, however, persistent, vindictive and dangerous; and the testimony is clear that there was firing from the ferryboat and the shore upon the steamer, before the troops used their guns.

George H. Wheeler.

Mr George H. Wheeler, a well known citizen and business man, died on Sunday afternoon about three o'clock after a short illness. He was born in this county forty-two years ago, on the 19th day of last September. Nineteen years ago he married Miss Awilda Oliver who survives him. He has six children and had the care of two orphans. During the late war he was a 1st Lieutenant in Company D. 10th Ky., Federal Cavalry, and afterwards Capt. of Co. G. 11th Ky. Cavalry. He served honorably until the close of the war. He was a member of the Lodge of Knights of Pythias of Aberdeen, and of Charter Oak Lodge I. O. O. F., of the same place and had filled all the offices in both lodges. The funeral will take place at two o'clock this afternoon, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows, after services by Rev. M. D. Reynolds, of the M. E. church South.

TAUGHT TO BE COWBOYS.

The Practical Training of Stock Men Made the Object of a School in Texas.

New York Sun.

"Yes, sir, that's perfectly correct. As the advertisement says, $100 pays for three months' instruction, in rearing, tending and caring for horses, cattle and sheep, with board and the use of a good saddle horse on a stock ranch in West Texas, and a young man after learning the business can get immediate employment in it at $50 a month or more.

The speaker was the local agent of the Texas Farm Association who went on to explain:

"This association, has nothing to do with the matter, except to receive applicants for this practical tuition. The man who makes the offer is Colonel Byron Van Raub, owner of the Don Carlos ranch, which is twenty-two miles north of San Antonio. But we know the offer to be made in good faith, and that the Colonel is a perfectly square, trustworthy man. He is an old Prussian officer, who has ideas about training young men, and does this thing more because it does good and amuses him than for any profit from it. He has 8,000 acres of land, stocked with some 400 ponies, a lot of horses—I don't know how many—and 4,090 head of cattle and sheep. His plan is to teach young men to be stockmen by making their daily life for a time a steady accumulation of knowledge of results indelibly fixed by experience. Each branch of the business will be thoroughly taught by experienced men, including breeding, herding, branding, lassoing, marketing, riding—a thousand things about camp life that can only be learned by experience. The pupils will not only be taught by the work on his own ranch, but will be taken to visit the other great ranches in the vicinity, some of which have on them 1,000 to 2,000 horses, 10,000 to 50,000 head of cattle, and 10,000 to 60,000 sheep and goats. There are now on Colonel Van Raub's ranch forty-four young men, between the ages of fifteen and thirty-five years, going through this course of instruction. A number of them are Englishmen, and there are also some from Nova Scotia, and several from other parts of New England. None have yet gone from New York, but it is probable that the offer will not fail to attract a good many here. This is the best season for them to go out to learn the winter work. Practically, one month, in December and January, covers all the bad part of the Texas winter. For eleven months in the year one can camp out there in the open air without danger or discomfort. The fare from New York to San Antonio is $56.50 by boat and rail, or $57.26 by all rail, first-class limited.

"No. The elements of draw poker and seven-up and the use of the revolver are not included in Colonel Van Raub's course of instruction, nor even permitted on his ranch. It is a popular error to suppose that the Texan goes about constantly with a howitzer on his hip and in a normal condition of inebriety. The country is settling up rapidly with good, law-abiding citizens, who respect the rights of person and property just the same as people do elsewhere. Our association has sent out there within a year some 1,600 settlers, the best class of emigrants, many of them from other States, and thousands go without or direction or knowledge.

ABERDEEN ITEMS.

Miss Lissa Coburn, a charming young lady of Ripley, Ohio, is the guest of Miss Maud Wilson, of this place.

Mr. D. Schiltz and wife paid Manchester, a visit Sunday.

Mr. T. Madigan, who has been on the sick list for the past week is rapidly improving.

Mr. Cheesman was up the river on a business trip this week.

Mr. J. Newton returned home on last Saturday.

Dr. Lay, our accommodating telegraph operator has been on the sick list for several days past.

The residence of John Hall is being rapidly completed.

On account of the absence of our pastor who has been holding a series of meetings at Ebenezer, there has been no preaching here for the past two Sunday nights.

COUNTY POINTS.

WASHINGTON.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church still continues. Up to the present time there have been twelve additions to the church. These persons were received in proper form Sunday morning. Rev. J. S. Sims, who has been assisting in this meeting, is a most excellent preacher.

Mrs. Ambler and Miss Sallie Marshall, of Fleming county, have been spending a few days with their grandfather, Hon. M. P. Marshall.

Prof. Thomas Parry, who is conducting a subscription school at this place, has sent out some very neat monthly reports, giving the class standing of his pupils. We like this plan as it gives parents information which they could not otherwise obtain.

We have seen a book agent in town selling the "Story of the Bible," OCCASIONAL.

The Best.

There are other good cooking stoves and A. J. Egnew & Co., keeps them in stock, but if there are two stoves in existence which lay just claims to superiority in many respects over all others they are the OMAHA AND HOT BLAST CHARTER. We have not the space here to point out their many merits but call at our establishment on Market street and we will take great pleasure in doing so there, whether you wish to buy the stove or not. We consider it the best stove in the market. oct30:1&wlm. A. J. EGNEW & Co.

ROOF PAINTING.

A Few Plain Facts in Regard to TIN and IRON ROOFS.

Preserve your roofs by having a coat of

ELASTIC ROOF PAINT

Applied on them. After ten years test in different cities in the state of Kentucky, Armstrong's Elastic Roof Paint is acknowledged superior to any other in use. It forms a heavy elastic body smooth and glossy; it will not crack or scale, dries quickly and will remain without repainting from 8 to 10 years. This paint will stop all leaks in tin or iron roofs and remain so for many years. It has been applied to many of the best buildings, both public and private, in this state, of which I have testimonials to show from gentlemen whose standing in society and business qualifications makes their opinion and knowledge of its worth, after having tried it for years on their roofs, which of itself is the best of guarantees of its useful and valuable worth to all who have or metal roofs. If you have a leaky or a worn out roof that has decayed from neglect of being properly covered with paint, and it leaks and your tinners have failed to stop the leaks, give my paint a trial, and if I do not stop the leaks entirely there will be no charge made.

I will remain in this city a few days with the view of introducing my Elastic Paint, of which I am the inventor and manufacturer and sole owner. I manufacture but the two kinds, the Black Elastic and the Elastic Brown. Neither of these paint contain any linseed oil in their composition, and both being fire proof when applied on shingles or wood. The Black Elastic can stand more intense heat than any other paint made or known in this country, and is calculated for tin or iron roofs. n27f LYSANDER B. ARMSTRONG.

A Ship Brake.

An apparatus has been invented, the introduction of which, it is claimed, will prevent any further appalling disasters caused by the collision of vessels in rivers, channels, and at sea.

The construction of the device is very simple and consists of a pair of iron shutters or "fins," hinged one on each side of the stern post of a vessel and shutting close to its sides from the stern post forward. The "fins" are kept tightly closed by a simple apparatus on deck, which is connected with the pilot house, and when "let go" the stays connected with the "fins" allow them to open at right angles with the ship, bringing it at once to a standstill, and holding it fast as if anchored. The area of the "fins" is in direct ratio with the size of the ship, and the immediate stoppage of the vessel when they are suddenly opened is a certainty. "Fins" much larger than are needed may be fitted to all vessels without looking out of proportion to the size of the ship. For example, a vessel requiring fins with a superficial area of 100 square feet to stop it could be supplied with fins of an area of 500 feet, and they would not look large or disproportionate to the ship. When the fins are released the experiment proves that no jarring or shock is experienced, such as is felt on a railroad when the brakes are applied. The water being a yielding body, acts as a spring or cushion. For foggy weather or darkness a self-acting guard is rigged out at the bow of the vessel, and should it meet with any rigid body in the path of the ship when touched, it at once releases the "fins" and stops the vessel before it can reach the obstruction, without any movement or direction on the part of the pilot or navigating officer. When closed the fins follow the outline of the ship, and, being flush with its sides, can in no way diminish its speed. The inventor's first experiment was made with a 37½ foot fast steam yacht, to which was attached a pair of "fins" 4 feet long by 2½ feet wide. This power proved to be at least twice as much as was needed to stop the vessel instantly when at full speed. A second trial demonstrated this fact when only one fin was used. The spare traveled after the brake was applied was so small that it could not be discerned by persons watching the experiment from the shore.

To ascertain what sized fins would be required to stop a certain steamship of fourteen hundred tons measurement a raft or float was constructed to carry a pair of fins in position without fixing them to a vessel. The float and fins were towed out by a powerful tugboat, being attached thereto by a new six-inch manila hawser. When the tugboat was going at full speed with full steam on the fins were released and the effect was to snap the hawser like a piece of thread, making a report like a cannon. The fins remained firm. The breaking strain of a six-inch hawser is said to be twenty-seven thousand pounds. The fins used on this occasion were each 9x3 feet, or together an area of 144 square feet. When they were tried with the fourteen hundred-ton vessel they proved abundantly large, stopping the ship instantly and holding her fast against her power within a less distance than five feet.

In the opinion of the inventor a collision like that of the Stonington and Narragansett could have been averted if the steamers had been provided with the brakes. The Stonington—the colliding vessel—had several minutes in which to stop. The same number of seconds would have been sufficient with the brake to bring her to a standstill. Another case in point was the loss of the steamship Bohemian, which was wrecked on the southern point of Mizzen Head by collision with rocks. Out of fifty-seven persons on board thirty-five perished, including the officers. One of the survivors stated in evidence that he was on the lookout and gave warning of "breakers ahead" ten minutes before the steamer struck. —N. Y. Herald.
